Approved

Purpose: This procedure provides the requirements for the protection of the intellectual property of RoviSys and that of our clients. All employees have a responsibility to protect the information that they acquire as a result of their involvement with any project at RoviSys. These guidelines are to be followed to achieve this end result.

Accepted Standard Files:

NDA RoviSys Client (MS Word) - 'Administrative' folder.

RoviSys Subcontractor NDA (MS Word) - 'Administrative' folder.

Reference RAP 005 Document Templates Policy for detailed instructions on accessing templates.

Definitions

- Managers: A member of the RoviSys management team.
- Intellectual Property: Knowledge that is valuable. Patents, copyrights and trademarks are protected by law. Trade secrets, recipes, control schemes, and process designs are examples of intellectual property that may be valued by RoviSys clients, but not disclosed through the patent process or other public knowledge. Intellectual Property can be in many physical forms (i.e. drawings, documents, electronic files, verbal trade secrets, etc.)
- Proprietary Information: intellectual property that is deemed confidential by its owner.

In most cases, the client will provide a copy of their NDA for RoviSys to review and sign. When asked to provide an agreement document, use the latest template.

1. Protection of Confidential information

1. The RoviSys Company treats all client intellectual property as confidential information.
2. Any document, drawing or message marked "Confidential" must be treated with the utmost care to maintain confidentiality.

2. Contractual Commitments

1. The RoviSys Company frequently executes "Secrecy" or "Non-disclosure" agreements with our clients and vendors. These agreements are formal documents stating the term of protection and the type to be provided. RoviSys officers and managers typically sign these agreements.
2. Formal agreements commit The RoviSys Company and all of our employees to protect the intellectual property of both companies.
3. Employees may be asked to sign individual agreements that commit them personally to the third party to maintain secrecy.
4. Employee Employment Agreements, executed at time of hire, include confidential information clauses, which bind the employees to Intellectual Property and Confidentiality Agreements executed between The RoviSys Company and their Clients, Suppliers, and other partners.

3. Contracts with Competing Clients

1. RoviSys management will assess situations where competitive client information is a factor.

4. Handling of Confidential information

1. The sending party should stamp any drawing or document that contains confidential proprietary or sensitive information " Confidential".
2. If a drawing or document that is clearly confidential arrives at RoviSys without a "Confidential" stamp, then RoviSys will stamp it " Confidential".
3. "Confidential" documents must not be allowed to pass into unauthorized hands.
 1. Copies must be made only on an as needed basis.
 2. Drawings should be secured at the end of the day or when they will be unattended for lengthy periods.
 3. They should never be shown to other clients.
4. When RoviSys works with electronic copies of such documents, they will be stored in a Grandview or source code databases that are protected with password security. Only those employees on the project team, and with a need to know, shall be permitted to access them.

5. Restricted Access at RoviSys Facility

1. All non-employees will wear a "Visitor Tag" and register at the receptionist.
2. Unescorted visitors (clients, suppliers, employment candidates, etc.), shall be confined to the meeting rooms on the west side of the Aurora facility. They should not be allowed to wander into employee offices or the lab/check out area.
3. Only employees and escorted visitors (clients approved by management may be unescorted) shall be allowed in the lab/system checkout area (all areas east of office double doors). No suppliers, sales representatives or distributors shall be in the secured check out area.
4. Facility tours (of potential clients) shall be escorted and respect the intellectual property of our clients. Demonstration or viewing of any client's hardware, software, documentation, or application information should not occur without explicit management approval.
5. The server room shall remain locked at all times when unoccupied. Access will be granted to the employees assigned to maintain server functionality, phone and alarm systems.
